

Dungeons and Dragons: Checkpoint final

yo i think we are ready to go fight some dragons , where do we have to go?

Yes. You guys need to make your way back into the dragon's lair, you know?"

dragon's lair ??? where the hell is that You've already been there! It was called Draconia."

really , i dont remember . how to get there tho

"Okay. As long as one of us has knowledge in this sort of thing, I can see it on my map here... let me check real quick. Okay, so yeah! There was an exit from the forest not far away. Let me just pull up my topography chart for now and show you. This should give you all right with travel time. So if any of you want to roll a perception check or anything else, feel free to do so at will because you're walking through dark-ish terrain with trees about 50 feet tall."

what will perception check do in this case

"Oh, sorry! If you were trying to find something specific within the nearby vicinity or look around without lights, yes, Perception would come in handy!"

ok got it , guys lets go

"Yes, please."

ok, so we are now at Draconia , where do we go now

"You'll head down towards the center area; it looks like a big open field, and then there are two pathways forward: one leads straight towards what appears to be some buildings and structures, while another pathway seems to lead off to either side of those structures."

 dragons are ... here ? really?

 "Well, they could also be inside these caves along the sides of this canyon-like structure."

 ok , are there those structures around here??

 "I'm going to have you guys make intelligence checks based on the lore and mythologies surrounding dragon behavior."

 how do i do it

 "To figure out exactly which one you'd want to choose-- whether you wanna take them both to their home, or just try to attack them when they first emerge, depends on your approach."

 im confused , so dragons are around here ? can we find them and go for some battle

 "Yeah! Do you have a history in combat with dragons? Any experience dealing with such things?"

 nah, never

 "Do you have anyone who knows much about dragons coming with you?"

 unfortunately , we are all newbie...

 "It sounds like whoever created this dragon den might still be alive somewhere."

 can we start the fight with the dragons them

 "How did you even get past this point?"

 what do you mean ,we are here for dragons

"There is no reason why we shouldn't kill them before we talk to people."

Say something

